

THIRD YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1894.

ONE CENT.

IT'S SO IF IT'S IN THE

Real Estate Transfers.

John Duley and wife to Mrs. W. H. Frederick, a lot on North side of Second street, Sixth Ward; consideration, $1,000. Charles C. Dobyns and wife to W. B. Mathews, undivided half interest in a lot on Northwest corner of Second and Bank streets; consideration about $2,000.

A Pleasant Evening.

Miss Lula Young of the Sixth Ward very pleasantly entertained on last Thursday evening. Quite a number of her most intimate friends were present. The popular game euchre was played until a late hour, when refreshments were served, and the happy guests returned home glad of having spent so pleasant an evening.

Gave Ball.

John Parker, agent, and James V. McNamara, nephew of Bishop McNamara the anti-Catholic lecturer, were taken from jail at Kansas City Saturday and arraigned before Justice Worthen on the charge of carrying concealed weapons in the Court room at the time set for the lecturer's hearing. They took a change of venue to Justice Nicholas' Court at Independence and gave ball with Attorneys Elliot and Burnham.

Christian Church Meeting.

The large auditorium of the Christian Church was crowded to its full seating capacity almost last night to hear Rev. E. B. Calk's sermon on the object of the Great Preacher, Jesus. It was an earnest and eloquent discourse. Three persons united by letter, making twenty-four additions during the meeting. Services tonight at 7:30. The public cordially invited.

The theme to-night will be, "The Best is Always Difficult of Attainment."

She Is Bound to Come.

A gentleman of Mt. Olivet is in receipt of information from a prominent gentleman of Dover stating that the C. and O. Railroad is seriously considering the construction of a branch road, electric or steam, to Mt. Olivet from Dover. The Editor of The Mt. Olivet Democrat has also seen correspondence from Baltimore capitalists in regard to running a line to Maysville. It's only a matter of time when some such a road will be built. There is every demand for it.

The Factory Girl.

The performance of the "Factory Girl" at the Opera-house next week will be played as benefit of the poor. The cast will include Miss Mac Power, Miss Agnes Breen, Miss Mary Walz, Miss Alice Wheeler, and Messrs. George M. Adams, Charles Rife, Will Stockton, Harry Curran and Charles Trapp.

The play is not a new one by any means, being an old society play that abounds in comedy situations and has a pretty and intricate plot. Nearly all the cast will introduce specialties.

HIGH-LIFE WEDDING.

Charged With Seduction, He Weds the Girl and Walks Off.

This life is curiously made up. On Saturday George G. alias "Tony" Lane was before Judge Wadsworth on a warrant charging him with seduction.

Miss Nettie Skinner, a very pretty girl residing on Short street, was the complainant.

After hearing the evidence Judge Wadsworth held Lane in $500 for his appearance at the Circuit Court, in default of which he was sent to jail.

A few hours meditation and visions of a term at Frankfort softened the mind and heart of Lane, and he concluded that marriage would not be a failure if it released him from Bob Kirk's castle.

So he procured a license, sent for Miss Skinner, and the Rev. Jacob Miller made them man and wife in the Clerk's Office about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bride departed by one route and the groom by another, with no apparent intention of traveling life's pathway together.

The Big Sandys are happy, because there is a proposition before the Kentucky Legislature to make it a penitentiary offense to remove the brands from logs.

If the lady who has an advertisement in THE LEDGER for a position for herself and daughter will call at this office she will hear of several good places where she can obtain a good home.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Kate Teresa McCarthy took place from St. Patrick's Church at 9 o'clock this morning, with impressive ceremonies. The remains were followed to the beautiful cemetery at Washington by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Death of Anna Mountjoy.

W. W. Ball received a telegram from Cincinnati announcing the death of Anna Mountjoy in that city last night at 8 o'clock.

The remains will be brought to this city for burial. Further particulars could not be learned at the hour of going to press.

Black Patti In Maysville.

Madame Maggie Carnes Anderson, the peerless soprano, with a world wide fame, won before Kings, Queens and Princes in Europe, while she traveled with the famous Fisk Jubilee Singers, will appear for the first time in Maysville at the Plymouth Baptist Church to-night. Home talent will assist.

Admission, single person, 15 cents. Children under 12 years, 10 cents.

Have You Seen Kate?

"Kate" is the mascot of the Bostonia. She is a dog about a year old, that has proved the faithful companion of the present crew of the Bostonia, since her own memory runneth not to the contrary.

She has clung to that crew in its various migrations ever since it left the Fleetwood. She clings to the crew still. Kate is known at all the landings along the river where the Bostonia stops, and will often go ashore and prow around for days at a time.

But once her curiosity is satisfied, back she comes to the landing to wait for the Bostonia. There is no good in trying to drive her away, for wait she will in spite of everything.

When at last the boat comes into sight Kate is all attention. As the boat draws near she watches it eagerly.

The moment it is within her reach, there is a flying leap through the air, a black dog drops upon the deck, and Kate is among her friends again.

"THE GOLDEN."

HALF A CENTURY ON THE VOY-AGE OF LIFE.

Mr. and Mrs. Eneas Myall observe the Fiftieth Anniversary of a Very Happy Event Which Occurred in Mayslick, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Eneas Myall celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their beautiful suburban home, "Windsor," on Saturday, January 27th.

All the children of the venerable couple were present with one exception. The six children who sat around the table, headed by father and mother in the seats of honor, were:

Mrs. James Walker and her husband, William Myall and wife, Miss Annie Myall, Ben J. Myall, Miss Myra Myall, Mrs. Mary Riley.

Among the other relatives present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Myall, Mayslick, Mr. and Mrs. George Myall, Mayslick, Miss Lula Myall, Mayslick, Mrs. Jonathan Myall, Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Myall, Paris, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, Flemingsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Johnson, Muir, Mrs. William Myall and daughter, Paris, Mrs. Emma Jackson, Mayslick, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and daughter, Millersburg.

Of the parties who witnessed the marriage of 1844 three only survive—Squires Hiram Dye and Silas Clift and Mrs. Lizzie Hawkins. The others have been gathered to their fathers.

Many costly and beautiful presents were given, among which were things suited to the domestic and art departments. Seldom do you see such a gathering of presents, representing England and America, from relatives and friends, both young and old, even from the little three-year-old Tom Guilfoyle, a devoted friend of Mr. Myall.

Mrs. Orr of Flemingsburg, an honored friend of the family, was present, and added much to the pleasures of the occasion. There seemed to be a constant flow of friends calling and passing with the day, congratulating and being made happy.

In lieu of the repetition of the ceremony the church Pastor, Elder Tinder, made a golden wedding congratulatory address.

In the brief sketch we furnish below is seen an object lesson—a lesson of self-reliance and of personal independence, which the young people of to-day would do well to remember and imitate.

Eneas Myall and his brother George emigrated from England April, 1841. After a voyage of five weeks in a sail vessel they landed in New York City, from which place they turned their faces toward Maysville, Ky., via Philadelphia, traveling in cars and canal-boats to Pittsburgh, thence in stateroom of the steamboat.

On arriving at Maysville they found themselves "dead broke," not having a cent and knowing no one except their uncle, Edward Myall, wife and daughter. The United States Bank had just broken and the best money was "shipwrecked," and work hard to be had, and none at the older's trade, blacksmithing.

Remaining in Maysville two weeks, Eneas borrowed half a dollar from his uncle Edward and started in search of work, leaving the "hills city" at the purpling of the morning, and taking the Lexington Turnpike, arrived in Mayslick in time to breakfast with Henry Vannoy, a blacksmith, and still no work to be had and the pilgrims passed on to Bluelicks. This making a long, wearisome journey, the younger brother, George, only 12 years old and very tired, was pitched into the boot of the stage which was passing the battle-ground.

On arriving at Bluelicks they began to inquire for work, and Thomas Holladay, proprietor of the hotel, gave each work—Eneas in the garden at fifty cents per day and George as a polisher of cutlery and waiting on the table, getting board for his labor. The great hotel, 670 feet in length and three stories high, was filled with guests, some 400.

Eneas continued in the cultivation of cucumbers and tomatoes for one week, and then secured work in the blacksmith shop, where he worked for three weeks at fifty cents per day.

At the expiration of this time he took leave of Bluelicks, promising his brother George, who was still waiting at the hotel, when he got a situation he would send for him. He started at 2 o'clock a. m. The moon shone brightly, and, undecided which way to go, he took from his pocket a half dollar, saying to himself: "If woman goes up (referring to the figure on the silver piece) I go down," and woman went up and he went down. The stage passing at this time, he jumped into the boot and rode to Fairview, but when it stopped to change the mail the boot passengers hopped out and passed through the village, but when it passed again the pilgrims found it convenient to take another ride, which brought them to the Baptist Church at Mayslick.

At this second visit to Mayslick Eneas was employed by Henry Vannoy to work at the blacksmith shop at $10 per month. Working eleven months, collecting the $110 due, he sent $100 of it to England for the passage fee of his brother Jonathan to this country.

Eneas at this time bought a set of blacksmith tools, paid $100 for them, borrowed the money from George Riley at 12 1/2 per cent, stake-and-riding it with David Jamerson and Elias Anderson, Elders of the Christian Church, as securities, which was paid in six months by the borrower.

Larkin A. Sandidge giving the ground he thereupon erected a shop.

In the following January 27th, 1841, he was married to Miss Sallie Ellis, who is a native of Nicholas county. She was a Christian girl, and was baptized by Elder John T. Johnson.

Six months after marriage he bought the property of Henry Vannoy, consisting of house and lot, shop and lot, known as the Cleary property.

Jonas Myall having been here some time, joined his brother Eneas in sending to the old country for their father and sister at a cost of $200—this concluding the family except one sister in England. From this time labor, economy and integrity have made the family what it is to day in influence and wealth.

To this union of Eneas and Sallie there were born eight children—seven living and one dead—three boys and five girls, four married, three single; grandchildren, seventeen living, four dead; great-grandchildren, two, both living. Joined the Christian Church by letter from Presbyterian under Elder R. C. Ricketts in the winter of 1846, by whom he was also married. Full forty years have been spent as officer of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Myall had the advantage of being the son and daughter of parents in reduced circumstances. If they lacked the motive of ambition they felt the stimulus of necessity and their fifty years of married happiness and business career have been a success. They have rounded the circle of life completely. Long may the devoted couple survive, ornaments of home, and examples of industry, economy and integrity.

Merchants,

Attention!

Please read THE LEDGER'S proposition, under head of "Where to Deal," to be found in another column, and then have your name placed "on the list."

After His Scalp.

One young fellow when asked what he thought of the Corbett-Mitchell fight said: "It was all right, I guess." When the pencil pusher asked him why he said "I guess," he told the following: "Last year I bet on Sullivan because he was the champion and had never been whipped. 'I bet with a sport, and when I paid him my bet he gave me his advice: 'Don't bet on a man because he is champion. Remember the man that is going to fight him must have lots of grit and nerve, and be pretty sure that he can whip him or he would never put up the money that has to be staked in order to get up a fight.'"

"Well, I took his advice and bet on Mitchell, and lost of course."

"I did not care for that until I heard that this same man made a pocket full of money on Corbett. Now I am after his scalp."

The Little Tycoon.

A picturesque effect is given to the finale of the first act of that popular comic opera, "The Little Tycoon," by the use of the panorama which gives an abbreviated, but nevertheless highly effective, idea of the view which passengers on the deck of an incoming ocean steamer obtain of the approach to and from the upper and lower bays of New York harbor.

The panorama is supposed to begin opposite Fire Island light, at which point there is a signal station in telegraph communication with the New York News Bureau, which announces the arrival of all large vessels.

From then on the views show Coney Island, Bay Ridge, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Battery and several of the high buildings immediately adjoining, the termination being at the steamship wharf. Although the picture is one in miniature, it is really entertaining and will no doubt be liked when the opera is sung at the Opera-house on the night of Tuesday, January 30th.

G. W. ROGERS & Co. shipped thirty-five cases Rogers Old Skote to one house last Friday.

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire of McKay, O., says: "La grippe left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children, when troubled with colds or croup." Twenty-five and fifty cent bottles for sale by John J. Reynolds, Druggist.

A Barrel of Money.

Jack Rogers, an old farmer of Mercer county, wealthy and eccentric, became alarmed last fall at the prevailing unsteadiness of the banks during the financial flurry. He had $4,000 on deposit, which he concluded to put in a safe place. He withdrew it from the bank and put it in a barrel of shelled corn in his barn. Now he would be very much pleased to get his hands on the coin again, and doubtless be willing to entrust it to the keeping of the bank once more, but some person, unknown, who found it is keeping it for him.

This Is News.

The Augusta Reporter thus gets back at its many friends (?) who have been insinuating that the paper would change hands.

"Nearly all of our exchanges have been busy for a week or two announcing that C. B. Morford had bought this paper. 'We knew all the time there was a mistake somewhere and felt sure that time would reveal to us that we still 'had the calf by the tail,' and now it comes in the shape of a card from Mr. Morford in The Mt. Olivet Advance in which he announces his determination to practice law in that little village."

"It might be proper to add right here that instead of this paper being sold, it will bloom into a seven column semi-weekly in a few weeks, with Sam Stairs holding down the editorial chair with both feet."

"We are going to make a newspaper or quit the business, and you want to keep your eye on these columns."

CAN THIS BE SO?

Professor Blakeman Ordered From Kirksville, Madison County.

The following dispatch appeared in The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette yesterday:

"Professor B. F. Blakeman, who has been in charge of Elliot Institute at Kirksville, this county, has been compelled to give up his school and leave town. He recently employed a Miss Hollis of Chicago to come and take charge of the Musical Department of the college, agreeing to pay a certain salary and to retain her during the remainder of the term. She had been teaching but two weeks when Blakeman notified her that her services were not needed. He mistreated her in making settlement, and when it was noised about the citizens became indignant and let him know it to be his advantage to flee. He acted upon their advice and left at once. It is said he came from Mercer county."

Professor Blakeman is a native of Danville and well known in this vicinity, having often visited friends in Maysville who are slow to believe all the above is true.

HOLE IN THE GROUND.

Accidentally Discovered by Fleming Boys While Hunting Rabbits.

A medium sized but extraordinary cave was discovered near Sherburne, in Fleming county, by two boys in a very peculiar manner, and with an experience that the boys do not soon want to pass through again.

They were out hunting, and chasing a rabbit into a small hole in the ground, they proceeded to dig it out.

After laboring in vain for a long time they gave it up and started away.

They had not gone far when the earth began to sink behind them, and with a roar a large portion went down as though the bottom had fallen out, leaving an aperture in the surface about the size of a hoghead.

The boys made known what they had seen, and a party was gotten together and an exploration made.

Joe Black, one of the party, was let down on a rope, and after descending sixty-five feet stood on the bottom.

Four spacious rooms were discovered the largest 40x38 feet, and many formations and small apertures.

In one corner of the largest room was an opening into a lower apartment, into which a line was dropped thirty feet, but which was not explored.

It is supposed that this apartment is much larger than the first, and preparation is being made to make a full and complete search of the cave.

One of the strangest peculiarities is the deafening noise from rushing water in the bowels of the earth.

OLD AND NEW.

The "sturdy oak and clinging vine" are out of fashion now;
The modern maiden stands alone, with triumph on her brow,
She buffets bravely with the world, she fares as best she can,
And gamely makes her way through life without the help of man.
Her broken yoke of servitude she tramples "neath her feet;
Her ancient tyrant she defies, and finds her freedom sweet.
Yet sometimes, when the road is hard, and things look rather black,
The independent woman's thoughts insist on harking back.
The sheltered life seems very fair amid earth's crowding ill,
And restless the old-fashioned plan—a man to pay the bill!

SEATS are now on sale for "The Little Tycoon."

"UNCLE TOM'S Cabin" at the Opera-house to-night.

OLD-FASHIONED Buckwheat and pure Maple Syrup at G. W. Giesel's.

Don't fail to attend "Uncle Tom" to-night. It may be your last chance.

MILD, but always effective, Ayer's Pills are indispensable as a family medicine, both for children and adults.

DR. MATTHEW T. SCOTT, a prominent Lexington physician, died in Texas, where he had gone for health. Aged 30 and leaves a family.

DAVID SMITH, one of Vanceburg's Councilmen, was arrested last week for being drunk and was fined $2 and costs. Good example for "City Dads" to set.

HON. J. S. PUGH and his nephew, W. B. Pugh, have prepared a bill which will be introduced by Hon. S. J. Pugh in the Senate, entitled "an act to establish and organize State Industrial Schools, one for girls and one for boys."

Does your subscription to THE LEDGER expire Wednesday? If so why wouldn't it be a good plan to drop in and see us. If you drop in and see us the "Tramp" won't drop in and see you. Come on one at a time or all together. We will gladly welcome you.

THE man who is looking for an excuse for not attending church will find one in the statement that a Chicago Divinity student went to sleep during a sermon on a recent Sunday, and could not be awakened for 90 hours. This excuse will not be sufficient here at home, however, for we have no preachers of that kind.
